In addition, customers will need to wear a mask when inside a club, except when seated at a table to eat or drink. Reasonable steps should be taken to ensure: customers only consume food and drink while seated in the premises. If the business serves alcohol for consumption on the premises, orders are only taken from customers who are seated. Bookings are not to be accepted, or customers admitted onto the premises, if groups include more than 6 people or only include one household if the group is larger than 6. Customers must not join in groups of more than 6 people or multiple households where a single household group is greater than 6 inside the premises (including outdoor areas such as beer gardens). Tables must be appropriately spaced to enable social distancing. Take-away orders can continue to be made at a counter or bar (as can orders inside venues that do not sell alcohol). Businesses can be fined by local authorities or the police if they fail to fulfil the obligations placed on them in law. This includes ensuring that people do not meet in their premises with people outside of their household or support bubble, ensuring that tables are appropriately spaced, that loud music isn't played, and that customers do not sing in non-household groups of more than 6, or dance.
